

EXISTING SITE

WHITEHORSE, YK

SUNDOG CARVING STUDIO RETROFIT

Kobayashi + Zedda Architects was asked to consider various new location scenarios for Sundog Carvers, a youth at risk program developed along northwest coastal and Athabaskan carving traditions.

Locations for the new carving studio had to fit within some tight program requirements involving building footprint, public exposure, proximity to public transit and tourism marketing potential.

KZA also provided various exterior design expressions for proposed new locations that would fit within a very limited budget.